

Lesser known people undertaking charity work: Restoring your faith in humanity

They say 'Help others and god will help you.' True indeed.

In today's world when we cannot imagine a person to think about others before himself, there are people who are so compassionate that they are unbelievable!

Here are some people who are as ordinary as we are but they are making a difference in the society with their good work.

3. Patu Keswani

Patu Keswani is one man you should be inspired from. He is the chairman and director of Lemon Tree Hotels and employs disabled people as the staff in the hotel. About 10 percent of the country's population is disabled and almost all of them remain jobless. Not anymore! This man has been recruiting people with hearing and speech disabilities and with Down's syndrome since some years now. All the differently abled people employed in the hotel love their job and are happy and content.
